Other nations are worried about the fallout from the trade war, the possibility of a currency war, and are seeking a way to sidestep U.S. sanctions. Regardless, the central bank buy-up has stoked gold demand and helped fuel rising prices.